Sept. 21 - Sept. 25, 2020

HONG KONG
Nov. 2 - Nov. 6, 2020

TOP 5 GLOBAL PROVIDER
Financial Times, 2019
This challenging program will push you to shift your focus from day-to-day operations to long-term strategic HR. You’ll learn tools, frameworks, and best practices from the recently released Human Resource Competency Study, the largest and longest-running global study of HR, and build a business-focused strategy to establish your HR unit as a true business partner. You’ll emerge with an action plan to develop the nine HR competencies that drive internal and external value.

Action-learning experiences, interactive lectures, case discussions, and in-class activities will guide you in determining what culture, capabilities, and talent you’ll need to make your business strategy a reality. You’ll learn to identify who creates value and discover ways to drive a major impact on the firm’s performance. You’ll emerge with a clear roadmap to create customer and economic value through HR.
WHO SHOULD ATTEND:
• HR Directors, VPs, Managers, and Generalists responsible for the design and implementation of effective HR strategies
• Line Managers who recognize that placing the right talent in strategic roles is the only way their organization will succeed now and in the future

Typical titles include:
• Manager/Director of Talent, Benefits, Payroll, or Compensation
• Senior, Group, Global, or Executive Director of HR
• VP of Human Resources
• Business Unit Manager or Director

PROGRAM STRUCTURE
This popular program attracts participants from a wide variety of industries, organizations, and countries, fostering a dynamic learning environment. The following program topics will be presented through a combination of action-learning activities, group discussions, team exercises, lectures, case studies, and projects.

DAY 1
• Assessing the business strategy and organization structure
• Understanding the goals, processes and sequences that make a structure work via case studies and discussion
• Structural alternatives aligned to strategy

DAY 2
• Diagnosing the strategic implications of building great, sustainable organizations using tools from the book, What Really Works
• Review of basic partnership issues:
  - What do we need to do to grow/improve this business/unit?
  - What is our life cycle stage?
  - What is our strategy? What does it need to be?
  - What is our culture? Is it aligned with our strategy?
• Exploration of HR partners vs. HR players
• The three strategies required for partnership success:
  - Business strategy
  - Workforce strategy
  - HR strategy
• Understanding the three strategies and engaging in a “deep-dive” on the strategic capabilities of each participant’s firm

DAY 3
• Building a workforce strategy:
  - Strategic capabilities required: diagnostic tools
  - Present and desired state
  - Gaps and their causes
  - Strategic positions and talent
  - Where, how, and who creates customer and economic value
  - Performance vs. potential
• Building talent inventories:
  - Case example: building a talent inventory for your line of business/company
  - HR metrics
  - Culture: expectations and inspection
  - Talent: bench strength vs. benchmarks

DAY 4
• HR strategy and actions:
  - What will HR need to do differently with talent to have a profound impact on the creation of customer and economic value?
  - Building a new HR architecture
  - HR practice changes
    - Selection
    - Development
    - Performance management
    - Rewards
    - Communication
    - Work design
• Aligning and integrating HR:
  - HR as a system: a whole and not a heap
  - The financial impact on the organization of aligned and integrated HR systems
• Strategic HR planning:
  - HR Strategy: HR’s ‘mission critical’ capabilities and talent
  - Workforce metrics: what workforce data should be captured to impact the success of the firm’s business strategy

DAY 5
• HR leadership: delivering the HR agenda:
  - HR as a change agent
  - Leading the HR function
  - Influencing line leaders to align daily practices to business strategy
  - Talent effectiveness
  - Sustaining change
  - HR with an attitude
• Building an action plan to deliver short-and long-term value through HR
• Program concludes at noon

Finding and retaining “A players” — or high-performing, high-potential employees — is key to success. But a single-minded focus on securing outstanding talent misses the point, says Professor Dick Beatty. Here, he explains why identifying “A positions” is also critical.

POSITIONS FIRST, PEOPLE SECOND
An exclusive focus on “A players” puts the horse before the cart. High performers only add value if they’re harnessed to the right cart — that is, engaged in work that’s essential to company strategy. Few organizations identify their strategic “A positions” before focusing on which “A players” should fill them.

INGREDIENTS FOR "A POSITIONS"
Most HR professionals know the ingredients for an “A player.” But what constitutes an “A position”? Look for strategic relevance. “A positions” should directly support the company’s key strategies. Organizational hierarchy is irrelevant. In fact, these positions may be relatively simple jobs that need to be performed creatively to further unique objectives that impact the creation of customer and economic value.

PERFORMANCE VARIABILITY:
If employees in a particular role (e.g., regional sales) have varying degrees of performance, invest in their development. Better performance averages in key roles pay significant dividends in corporate value creation and the sustainability of the company.
