Global Field Experiences

-In 2014-15, we ran 11 GFEs with 35 student participants in 9 different countries.
-Students consulted virtually with their organization over the course of the semester and then traveled to the host organization’s HQ to deliver final recommendations.
-Faculty advisor ran consulting workshops to help students develop necessary consulting skills and troubleshoot project issues.

Project-Based Global Business Experiences

-In 2014-15, 3 out of our 8 GBEs had a project based component (Argentina, Brazil, and Israel); 83 students out of 206 (40%) GBE participants did a project-based GBE.
-Small teams of students interacted with companies prior to their group’s departure and then met with their organizations while in-country.
-Program is based upon on a relevant theme and a faculty leader accompanies the group in-country; students participate in cultural and business related activities, in addition to working with their organizations during these programs.

Darden Consulting Projects

-In 2014-15, we ran 17 projects in the US with 30 student participants.
-Option to do an independent consulting project or small group consulting project.
-Students can source their own projects, overseen by a faculty advisor.
