WILLIAM ANDREW PATON stood as a giant in the history of U.S. accounting education. Throughout his career, he made a lasting impact upon accounting thought, education, and practice. In 1987, he was honored by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants as the Accounting Educator of the Century.

Graduates of the University of Michigan are well aware of the impact that Professor Paton had on the teaching of accounting and accounting literature. His first article on accounting appeared in 1917, and altogether he was the author of more than 20 books and 200 articles and monographs.

Many of his students, and students of his students, have gone on to outstanding careers in accounting. They have achieved leadership positions in academia, public accounting, and industry, and have attained the highest honors in business and accounting education. At the University of Michigan, that tradition of excellence continues to thrive even today — a living tribute to the high standards established by Professor Paton.
HELP US CREATE INDUSTRY LEADERS.

Your contribution to the Paton Scholarship Fund creates immeasurable opportunities for our BBA and MAcc students. It allows them to experience Ross’ unique approach to accounting education, which goes beyond preparation for the CPA exam. Our accounting curriculum culminates with the real-world business applications of the MAcc Program, including:

- the Ernst and Young Public Policy Symposium, a hands-on course delivered in Washington, D.C. that explores the public policy of business and accounting
- participation in the Ross Leadership Initiative, a program that develops leadership skills
- full integration with the world-renowned Ross MBA

Over 90% of the Class of 2014 secured full-time job placement by graduation. This speaks to the caliber of the Ross approach, which is supported by our award-winning research faculty, Career Services team, unmatched education facilities and the largest alumni network in the world. Ross’ holistic approach also explains why it is common to encounter partners in the accounting industry with a U-M degree.

Exceptional students choose Michigan Ross. Help us invest in their dreams and success.
